

ABSTRACT

The present invention features a method of treating acne or rosacea by applying to the skin electrochemically 5 generated zinc ions. In one embodiment, the method includes topically applying a device including an anode containing zinc.